Summary

Yashwantrao Chavan Maharashtra Open University was established in the year 1989. The Mission of the university is 'reach to unreached'. To achieve this mission, the university has set six objectives. One of the objectives is to pay special attention to the educational needs of rural people and women. Many activities have been implemented by the university for the underdeveloped sections of the society through Prayog Pariwar , Krushi Vidnayan Kendra. At the headquarter the university running Dynagangotri Savitribai Phule Study Centre from last five years . University class three and four employee , security guards are given free admission to this centre.

Formal agreements with various organizations , grants for workshops are also taken from various institution. The university received the grant from Maharashtra Women's Commission for skill empowerment of tribal women. Under this grant, 65 tribal women are given two days residential training. These women are understood the importance of education and were ready for education. Women were allowed to set up free stalls to sell goods based on the skills they acquired in the skill workshops. University employees bought the items.

Due to gap of several years in education, pre-admission counselling was conducted. Six women are took free admission for Bachelor of Art program (B.A.). Among them five were married and one was unmarried. Study materials were also distributed.. A contact session is being conducted once a month. University professors and Vidyavachaspati students acted as counsellors. The behavior of the counsellors and staff during the contact session was cordial.

The exam for the first year (F.Y. B.A.) was conducted at the university head quarter. Guest house accommodation was provided at low cost. F.Y. After completion, questionnaires were filled by them on various factors. Their feelings are given below.

Incomplete education could be completed through university. While studying, we got the experience of thinking about the surroundings , the environment. Memories of school and childhood were brought back. The desire to get an education was incomplete due to early marriage. It was completed by Open University. At the time of the final examination, accommodation in the university allowed time for study. Attended the exam on time and solved the entire paper. We realized that we still have the courage to do something different and that we can do it. We take full advantage of this catch phrase, Dyan Ganga Ghoru Ghari.

After the completion of first year second year (S.Y.) had freedom of choice of subjects. Counsellors was guided in all subjects. These womens chose subjects related to Marathi, Psychology and Political Science. At the same time, due to the outbreak of Covid , it was not possible for them to attend the contact session. Self study questions were sent to them by Whatsapp group. The internal work was completed through whatsapp only.

Third year (T.Y. B.A.) the exam was to be conducted online with objective questions due to covid. Women were guided through Whatsapp . Out of 6 women 5 women passed B.A. programme.. Four women got first class in one Dsitinstion.

Through Mukta Vidyapitha, the causes of dropout of tribal girls and women were eradicated by supporting the following.

- Poverty - Free admission to tribal women and girls.
- Content of Education - Students were given an opportunity to choose subjects according to their interest.
- Lack of educational institutions – They was admitted to the study center in the university.

Therefore, the facilities of the university were made available and their final examination was conducted at the headquarters

- Inadequate Aadhaar Services - Guesthouses were provided for accommodation at very low cost. , the counsellors provided the facility of traveling in their own vehicles.
